Freights charged are so excessive that merchants at Tiflis find it cheaper to bring over corn from America.

ROUGH ON MEDILL

Secretary Sherman Tells about an Interview in 1878

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Chicago, March 29—An Inter Ocean Washington special says that a correspondent interviewed Secretary Sherman respecting the published story that Hon Joseph Medill, editor of the Chicago Tribune had an interview with him in 1878 and attempted to exact a promise that he would nullify the resumption act, giving as a reason that he, Medill, would go to the wall on account of financial troubles The secretary made to the Inter-Ocean correspondent a positive statement that such interview did occur, that Medill left in a towering passion because the secretary refused to accede to his wishes and immediately began a series of attacks on him (Secretary Sherman) in the Chicago Tribune which have continued up to the present morning when Medill's paper, the Tribune published an editorial denying the story in toto suggesting that Secretary Sherman might have been mistaken in the identity in the conversation, and showing that there were many reasons why the story was false, chief of which is the fact that the Tribune has been a strong and consistent resumption paper throughout this administration

To night the Inter-Ocean has another Washington special which, says that Secretary Sherman laughs at the logic and reasoning of the Tribune editor It is understood says the special that Sherman proposes to carry the war into Africa in the Tribune's assaults upon him continue by bringing forward some witnesses to the interview Some of Mr Medill's friends claim that the topic of the interview between him and Sherman was remonetization of silver and not resumption

THE BRANCH ROADS

A correspondent of the Salem Statesman presents the following considerations on the railroad question as presented to the people of the eastern and central parts of the Willamette valley

It is said on good authority that the O & C R R intend to build their feeders so as to intercept Salem and Albany to drain these counties to their centers, those that were fixed by the people themselves What more do we want than this? Salem if this was done would rapidly increase in population thereby add to the common cause a larger number of home producers and consumers additional permanent wealth would follow farms would increase in value and the county would settle up with greater rapidity Salem Silverton and Waldo hills would be united by a chain of industries that would give commercial interest and security to all surroundings This would be the effect of the road the O & C R R propose to build This is the road for our people

The old company's proposition does not destroy our towns and cities nor does it want the air we breathe nor does it depreciate the value of our farms by which it may procure them by our misfortunes But it asks our co operation in its efforts to build these roads The old company has stood by us in their liberality since Mr Koehler and Mr Brandt have controlled the road They have been so obliging that it may be said that the people really run the road I feel at this time that the people are safer with that company than any other

A Big Story About England and China

New York March 29—It is rumored in trade [illegible] here that immense numbers of guns have been made in England and shipped to China for use against the Russians but Great Britain could not supply the proper amount of cartridges [illegible] though there is a large exportation of American [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] rifle mus[illegible] [illegible] that the Chinese have been quietly arming [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Russians [illegible] [illegible] and fears that England may [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for its general [illegible]

The New York Herald [illegible] the order received by the Winchester Arms Company to make from fifteen to twenty millions of cartridges for the Chinese Government [illegible] This is the first order we have ever given by the Chinese government to foreigners for the manufacture of cartridges.

A Boston merchant recently hired a fresh country boy to run errands and sent him on a rainy day to mail some letters lending him a silk umbrella The boy soon returned without the umbrella, crying and said through his tears I went down to the office and stood the umbrella up outside the door while I went in to drop the letters and when I came out it was gone

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate

Washington March [illegible]

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the committee [illegible] with instructions.

Also [illegible] gave notice of amendments [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] said that in view of important amendments to the bill [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] it this morning [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a letter to speak upon it

Conkling desired [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] calendar and Thurman [illegible] [illegible] for a board of survey and completion of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] monitors

The calendar was taken up

Kernan's bill for an international exhibition in the anniversary of the recognition of American independence in 1883 was discussed

Thurman approved the plan

Eaton from the committee on appropriations reported with amendments an immediate deficiency appropriation bill placed on the calendar It appropriates $50,000 for [illegible] marshals [illegible] [illegible] and $300,000 for the government printing office

Kirkwood presented a memorial from the Iowa legislature protecting innocent users of patent articles.

Cameron presented a memorial from the Wisconsin legislature for Wright's plan of improving the upper Mississippi and its tributaries

Thurman moved to strike from Hoar's substitute the clause instructing the court of commissioners to allow as second class claims for payment of premiums for war risks

Discussion ensued as to the exclusion of war premiums in the course of which Thurman said there was likely to be several millions left in the treasury of the Geneva award after all claims made by the tribunal are paid He did not believe we were under moral obligations to return the remainder to Great Britain He thought it should be distributed to first class owners then if a surplus remained to those whose property was destroyed by exculpated cruisers

Blaine defended the cruisers who patriotically risked everything in defense of the flag

Thurman retorted that it was not patriotism but business to sail their ships even at a loss rather than let them rot in the harbor

During an extended colloquy between Blaine and Thurman the latter suddenly raised his hand to his forehead and seemed about to fall He was helped into the cloak room Thereupon the subject was dropped and the resolution for a board of survey on double turreted monitors was amended and passed Adjourned

House.

Blackburn offered an amendment deducting half of the annual salary of any minister who shall be absent four months or more any year from his post rejected 55 to 70 Also, a resolution deducting pay for the time any minister is absent from his post rejected Also decreasing the salary of the secretary of legation at China from $5000 to $2500 rejected Also, preventing the payment of salary to any diplomatic officer not mentioned in this bill

Neal withdrew his defense in the 45th congress of Bailey consul general at Shanghai because he then believed false the charges he now knew true Adjourned

KALLOCH TALKS

He has a Bout with the Supervisors, and Comes Out Ahead and afterwards Addresses a Meeting of Workingmen.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

San Francisco March 29—There was considerable music at a meeting of the board of supervisors this evening when Mayor Kalloch rose to a question of privilege At the last meeting several members made speeches attacking him for his utterances at the sand lot and Union Hall, charging him with incendiary language and also with insulting the board by stating that he had prevented them from perpetrating several steals Replying to night Kalloch produced reports of his speeches, and called upon them to show where incendiarism came in He also referred to his statements regarding the steal question and substantially reiterated them, quoting supervisor Torrey as having congratulated him on preventing the passage of certain jobs by the board Torrey failed to deny the impeachment and though some members of the board took up the question on behalf of the board the advantage in the skirmish was decidedly in favor of the reverend mayor After his bout with the board Kalloch went down to Union Hall where a large mass meeting of workingmen and democratic allies was in progress Here he rehearsed his squabble with the supervisors not hurting his own side in the recital to the manifest delight of his audience Friend Senators Satterwhite Lucs and others also addressed the meeting

The workingmen have less to say about the prospect of electing their ticket than at previous elections Whether this arises from lack of confidence or from having learned not to count their chickens before they are hatched it is hard to say There is considerable talk about town to the effect that the better class of workingmen are getting tired of Kearney and agitation but it is difficult to authenticate the report Supporters of the citizens union ticket express the greatest confidence in carrying the day and have evidently taken pains to insure that result

THE "OLD GANG" IN MARION

SALEM, March 29 1880

To the Editor of The Oregonian

The democratic county convention held here last Saturday, was one of the most complete of the petty frauds of petty politics Six country precincts had no representation and the motion to have them represented was rejected by the tricksters The town precincts were packed with loafers and dead beats by the crumb pickers of Grover's administration to whom no crumbs are dropped by the present administration Hardly any others went to the meetings The convention consisted of little else than the town precincts and the delegation to the state convention does not represent the democracy of Marion county in any respect. If it did the party in the county had well put up its shutters and retire from business. The most of the few of the better class of democrats who were in the convention refused to have anything to do with it when they saw how it was composed and run

JOBS AND LOBBYISTS

After this manner discourses the New York Times on the subject of protection

> The defenders of the high tariff insist that it is necessary to protect American industry but what protection does that industry get which is taxed for every implement it uses for the houses men live in and the clothes they and their families wear? And which is the most deserving of protection, the fractional industry employed in the protected manufactures or the rest of the working men of the country?

Taxation of one industry to support another is a comprehensive definition of protection only it must be added that the system taxes the greater industries to support the less A statistical atlas of the United States has been compiled by the census bureau showing by colors the proportions and relations of the various industries to each other A glance at this atlas shows that the color representing agricultural labor covers one half of every state, and four fifths of the areas of states of the south and west while the color representing manufactures which we are told must have special protection nowhere reaches one fourth But the laws levy so enormous a tax on three fourths of the industries of the country to protect the remaining one fourth that the latter have grown to immense wealth and influence, and actually are able to control congress for perpetuation of their system of privileged extortion

The recent change in the rules of the house of representatives is directly in the interest of this and other forms of legislative jobbery Under the new rules all members of the press and all persons except ex members of congress are excluded not only from the floor but from the corridors ante rooms and committee rooms of the house It is a well known fact that the most adroit and successful lobbyists are ex-members of congress Washington is full of them Ex-senators and ex representatives, men who have been in congress and learned how legislative jobs are carried and who are spoiled for any useful and really honorable business hang around Washington as attorneys for the endless schemes of legislative jobbery which are always lurking there They have free entrance at all times to both houses they have access to the personal presence of members, may visit committee rooms, may rummage all files and papers, are personally known to the clerks and doorkeepers, and arrange interviews obtain letters of credence to the heads and accounting officers of all the departments, and are completely on the "inside" in the handling of all schemes which will pay for successful results By shutting out everybody else and giving these 'attorneys' exclusive privileges the way is opened for all kinds of lobbying and jobbing True, ex members always had the privilege of the floor in both houses, but it is a new thing to exclude all other persons members of the press included from all means of information as to what is going on A Washington special says the new rule 'not only favors lobbying by ex-members, but thoroughly cripples the press in its efforts to discover the tricks of the lobbyists, or to get intelligent and satisfactory information concerning the business of the house.'

"Protection" is foremost among the schemes which thus protect themselves. As a device for fostering individual interests, building up great fortunes for a few at the expense of the many, and controlling legislation to enable its privileges and profits to grow by what they feed on, it is a great success It has money with which to turn ex-members of congress, by scores, into lobbyists to rule the law and dominate the country, and it joins hands with all other schemes of plundering the national treasury and the people through special legislation So humiliating and disgraceful is this lobbying in the halls and ante-rooms of congress by ex senators and ex-representatives who call themselves "attorneys" that the wonder is that a sense of shame does not compel the honest and respectable members to rise up and peremptorily abolish the abuse, and the cover to fraud and dishonesty which it furnishes

IN MASSACHUSETTS

Westfield, Mass, has been considering the school question. A correspondent of the Springfield Republican, writing from Westfield recently had the following on the subject, which the Westfield Daily Advertiser reprints with the remark "there is an unmistakable demand for a new departure in educational matters"

> Mixed with local politics just now is considerable talk of the manner in which our public schools are being run and this subject will not only prove an important factor in our town election, but will have a great bearing when the school appropriation comes to be voted. The general impression is that, for the nearly $20,000 annually spent in support of schools, we do not get our money's worth and also that there is a tendency to keep up what many term 'fancy education for a few to the detriment of practical education for the masses. As an instance is cited last year's report of the high school compared with one of the outdistrict schools. The latter with an average attendance per term of only twenty five cost but $3 60 per pupil while the former with an average of one hundred and fifty cost over $24. Many farmers and mechanics who cannot afford to fit their children for college grumble at paying such large sums for the sake of graduating once a year, ten or twelve young men and women who are fitted for college If their parents have money to send them there, and, if not, "feel their oats" too much to go into a shop to work with their classical knowledge The course of study prescribed in the grammar and high schools is of such a nature that pupils have to pursue from thirty to forty branches in order to get a coveted diploma and when through perhaps know but little of them There is a growing demand to have more attention given to practical education The general statutes make it obligatory upon the school committee to visit every school three times each term but this law is sadly violated according to their own report and one school I know of has not seen a school committee man inside its doors for the past twelve weeks The voters will probably order this spring the establishment of an ungraded school near the center of the town for at least four months in the year Scores of large children are now kept from school because their parents cannot allow them to attend the whole year, and with our highly cultured graded system there is no place in our schools for such classes.

The result of the agitation of the subject at Westfield may be seen in the following paragraph, clipped from a later number of the Daily Advertiser

> The lesson of the vote at the recent town meeting as regards the election of school committee seems to be that the masses of the people do not appreciate the fine high toned course of study that has become such a prominent feature of our public school system The majority of the people want something more practical a course that shall enable their children to fit themselves for the practical duties of life without giving the idea that because they have a little education they are of too much consequence to earn their living by manual labor which is the unfortunate result of the present high toned and complicated system The chief object of education is to teach children how to think correctly and act promptly and intelligently in every day life not make them feel that they are the superiors of others who may not have had their advantages, We expect to see improvement

This shows that Massachusetts which started the system is beginning to understand its workings and comprehend its results The whole matter could not be summed up better than in the extracts above quoted All over the country as the people begin to think on the subject a like conclusion will be reached and the present fine high toned and complicated system will be brushed away and practical methods substituted There are many signs that reform of the school system is coming to be regarded as one of the great [illegible] questions and demands of the time

LICENSES FOR TAKING SALMON

Astoria March 1880

To the Editor of The Oregonian

I would like to ask whether [illegible] license this season [illegible] some say [illegible] some pay [illegible] Answer in your [illegible] the doubt. Yours

HENRY MOLSON

An act passed by the legislature of Oregon at its last session declares that it shall not be lawful to take or fish for salmon for traffic barter or sale in the waters of the Columbia river and its tributaries with gill nets trap nets seins, weirs or traps without first having obtained a license therefor The owners of every boat using a gill net must pay ten dollars license for the season for each and every seine used ten dollars for each weir or trap fifty dollars and for each drift net $2 And each net tender or fisherman fishing or taking salmon with a gill net must pay five dollars for a license for the season Any cannery purchasing salmon from a fisherman to whom no license has been issued or purchasing from any person using a boat seine net or trap for which a license is required is liable to a penalty of fifty dollars for each and every offense. Every person fishing without a license is subject to a like penalty

It would seem rather strange that nothing can be found out at Astoria about this matter The commissioner of fisheries Mr A W Ferguson resides there we think and we venture a guess that all information required may be obtained from him

Political affairs in Virginia are in a strange muddle On all hands it is admitted that the democrats are hopelessly divided A new party known as the party of the readjusters has arisen Its primary object is readjustment of the state debt by the familiar process of scaling The republicans being powerless have only waited and watched Every effort to bring the two wings of the democracy into co-operation has been made but it proved futile and at last the hope of reconciliation has been abandoned The readjusters have determined not to yield and will run an electoral ticket of their own and they will either elect it or give the state to the republicans They claim however that they will not only keep their own ranks consolidated against both democratic and republican allurements but will attract many who have not heretofore acted with them and will sweep the state. Richmond correspondence of the New York Herald virtually admits that the state is lost to the democrats We have had little faith in any reported break in the line of the solid south but here it must be admitted, is something which looks like a prospect

Some interesting figures regarding the French people are given in the recent report of the French minister of agriculture and commerce The total population of the republic is in round numbers something less than 37 000 000, 12 000 000 of these living in towns and 25 000,000 in the country proper It is found that 3,827,000 are engaged in trade transportation and navigation or supported thereby 9 27 500 occupied in or sustained by various industries and 18 968 000 practicing or living by agriculture In no country do so many women work as in France, and it is said that the French are on the whole, the most industrious people on the globe

Pressure of advertisements upon the columns of THE OREGONIAN continues at a rate wholly unprecedented To relieve this pressure and furnish room for the usual variety of news and general matter we shall issue supplements as often as needful The demands of advertisers for space in our columns is convincing proof of the estimation in which this journal is held as a medium through which to reach the public Business men are not slow to perceive how money may be spent for advertising with best returns to themselves

The luxury of writing M P after one's name in England is a terribly expensive one From ten to twenty thousand pounds are not infrequently expended in a contest for a single seat In no other country are election expenses so high As members of parliament receive no salary there must be some peculiar fascination in politics which leads to sacrifices so great We should look in this country for members of congress to make up these losses by jobs of various kinds but in England there are few instances of financiering after this fashion

Quarters have been secured already at the Chicago hotels for delegations of many states to the republican convention The hotels refuse to make arrangements till after May 1 for rooms for the general public during convention week

ANALYSIS:

San Francisco, Feb. 24, 1880.

MESSRS WHITTIER, FULLER & CO:

Gentlemen—I have made a careful analysis of PIONEER WHITE LEAD, which I find to be PURE and entirely WITHOUT ADULTERATION. It has great BODY or COVERING POWER when mixed with Oil, in which it differs from some other samples of Pure White Lead I have examined.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 30, 1880

CITY.

THE OSWEGO RAILWAY.—Grading for the new narrow gauge railway, which is to be constructed by the Oswego Iron Company between the furnace and ore bed, has commenced, and the work will be crowded forward to an early completion. Mr Pomeroy has the contract for grading the first three quarters of a mile of the western end of the road, and George Prosser the remainder of the distance. A large force of choppers is engaged in cutting ties, and the necessary number (about 7000) will be ready in the course of a few weeks. When the grading is completed the work of laying ties will commence, to be followed by the rails.

NEW BEACON.—A new beacon similar to the one now located at the head of Three Tree island, will be erected at the bar in the Willamette near the head of Swan island. It is intended especially to assist pilots on vessels leaving the city at early daylight. In high stages of water, especially when there is a strong current, unless the water is very clear, buoys are not visible more than a ship's length ahead of down-ward bound vessels, and this improvement will materially aid pilots in keeping the channel.

ANOTHER FERRY COMPANY.—Articles have been filed in the office of secretary of state incorporating the Jefferson Street Ferry Company, whose purpose is to establish and maintain a ferry across the Willamette river from the foot of Jefferson street to the foot of U street, in East Portland. Incorporators, W. H. Andrus, I. Fretland and William [illegible]; capital, $20,000, divided into 200 shares of $100 each. Similar articles were also filed in the county clerk's office yesterday.

COURTS.—The state circuit court for Multnomah will probably adjourn for the term within two weeks. At all events it will have adjourned before the second Monday in April, as that is the date on which the circuit court for Columbia county will convene at St. Helens. The docket for the term, both law and criminal, is said to be very small and will soon be disposed of.

[illegible] EXAMINATION.—The examination of [illegible] for certificates, as required by law, took place last Saturday at the Central School building. The examination was conducted by Mr. L. Allen Macrum, county superintendent. There were 16 applicants for certificates, 14 ladies and two gentlemen. This is the [illegible] class which has presented itself for examination for years.

ESTIMATES FOR IMPROVING FIRST STREET.—City Surveyor Chapman is engaged in making estimates of the cost of the proposed [illegible] of First street between Madison and Woods. About a mile of street will be macadamized and pavements and sidewalks built. He will in all probability have [illegible] finished by the end of the week.

VESTRYMEN ELECTED.—At the parish meeting held yesterday in Trinity church vestry [illegible] the following named gentlemen were elected vestrymen for the ensuing year: Dr. [illegible] Wilson, Dr. R. Glisan, Hon. M. P. Deady, George H. Flanders, C. H. Lewis, [illegible] McCraken, R. Weeks, Wm. H. Effinger, [illegible] Brooke.

AWARDED THE CONTRACT.—At the meeting of the common council held last evening [illegible] ordinance was passed authorizing the committee on fire and water and the chief engineer to purchase 1000 feet of fire hose for the use of the fire department. The contract for [illegible] the hose has been awarded John [illegible].

ASSISTANT SURGEON.—Dr. T. T. Cabaniss, who removed to this city from Humboldt county, California, about six months ago, has been appointed surgeon in the U. S. A., and will leave for duty at Camp Howard Thursday morning. Dr. Cabaniss rendered excellent service as surgeon in the Modoc war.

CASE CONTINUED.—The preliminary hearing in the case of State of Oregon vs. Henry [illegible], charged with arson, was to have come up yesterday afternoon. However, the defense was not ready to proceed with the examination, and the case was continued until this morning at 10 o'clock.

RESUMED HER DUTIES.—For the past two weeks Miss Gantenbein, one of the teachers employed in the high school, has been unable to attend to the duties of her position in consequence of indisposition. The young lady, however, has so far recovered as to be able to resume her place.

IMPROVING FRONT STREET.—Last evening the common council repealed the ordinance which provided for the improvement of Front street from Ash to Madison by laying Nicholson pavement, and passed the ordinance providing for the improvement of the same street by laying Belgian stone blocks.

EASTER OFFERINGS.—The collection for parochial purposes in Trinity church on Easter Sunday amounted to $145 50. The collection for diocesan missions, including the children's offering, was $139 60; making the total offering for the day $285 10.

TRIED AND SUBMITTED.—In the state circuit court yesterday afternoon, the case of state of Oregon vs. Morrison, charged with larceny from a dwelling, was on trial. The testimony in the case was concluded and the matter was submitted to the jury.

Y. P. A.—On Tuesday evening, March 30th, at 7:30 P. M. the Young People's association will meet in the vestry of the Baptist church, and will be led by J. C. Otterson; subject, "[illegible] Needed." Young people especially invited.

BUOY REPLACED.—Buoy No. 2, marking the south channel of the Columbia river entrance, and the buoy on Peacock spit, which was carried away some time ago, have been replaced by the U. S. lighthouse tender Shubrick.

ARRESTED FOR PERJURY.—Constable M. B. Wallace arrested three Chinamen Sunday evening on Second street, and took them before Justice Davis, charged with perjury. They will have a hearing to-morrow.

PREACHING AT EAST PORTLAND. — Bruce Wolverton, pastor of the Christian church in this city, will preach at the Baptist church in East Portland this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

EASTER BALL.—The ball given at Turn Halle last evening under the auspices of the Portland Turn Verein, was largely attended and proved very enjoyable.

THE "ELDER."—The Geo. W. Elder arrived at Astoria at 6 o'clock yesterday evening and leaves for Portland at daylight this morning.

LIPMAN & CO.'S GRAND OPENING.

Notwithstanding the attraction at New Market theater last night, and the miserable weather, the splendid new store of S. Lipman & Co. was thronged with ladies and gentlemen from 7 to 10 P. M. It was generally remarked by those who attended that the display, in point of taste in the arrangement, and the variety and beauty of goods shown, was never before equaled in this city. Many striking novelties in the way of spring cloakings, Persian dress trimmings, evening silks, and beautiful dress goods, were exhibited, and the display of fine laces, silk handkerchiefs, fancy hosiery, and hundreds of little articles which adorn lovely woman, was the subject of much favorable comment. Several baskets of elegant, blooming flowers added to the beauty of the scene, which under the light of scores of gas jets, formed a picture fair to look upon. Space is wanting to give even a short description of the many varieties of goods displayed last night; but all who visit the store this week, and can appreciate first class goods, will be amply repaid in looking over Lipman & Co's elegant stock.

FINE ART.

We are to have a sale of Oil Paintings Wednesday evening. The Paintings are now on exhibition at corner First and Taylor. They are mostly landscapes and marine pieces from the studios of some of the best known Pacific coast artists. They are to be sold at auction without reserve. This will be an opportunity to secure some really fine paintings at low prices. The dull times having compelled artists to resort to this means to sell their works.

SCOTTISH CONCERT.

Large and Brilliant Attendance—A Success in Every Particular.

To say that the concert of last evening given by the St. Andrew's society was a success is to put it in the mildest language. It was a triumph, and the society has reason to congratulate itself at the crowded house which welcomed the sweet melodies of bonnie Scotland. Every seat in the theater was filled and many had to content themselves with standing room in the gallery. Over 650 people were present comprising among their number the wealth and fashion of the city. The stage was handsomely decorated, with evergreens entwining the pillars of the same and a beautiful arch of natural flowers, the keystone supporting a magnificent eagle—the emblematic bird of Scotland—with a wreath of laurel leaves in its beak and a scroll in its talons bearing the device, "Ceud Mille Failte" (a hundred thousand welcomes). Want of space forbids the extended notice which the excellence of the entertainment really merits. The opening was on the piano, Edinburgh Quadrilles, was executed by Mrs. DeFries with that precision, delicacy of touch and feeling which had already made the lady a favorite among the pianists of Portland. Mrs. Cruzan and Mr. Graham sang the Hunting Tower, by [illegible], as they did the other pieces rendered by them in a most artistic and pleasing manner. Mr. Macbeth's "Kail Brose of Auld Scotland" was rendered with considerable vigor and received merited applause. The recitation by Miss Tuthill, "Execution of Montrose," was vociferously encored and the lady responded with a fair rendition of "Charley McKee." Mrs. J. B. Wyatt was in good voice and gave the "Blue Bells of Scotland" in a beautiful and touching manner. She received an encore and gave "John Anderson, My Joe John." "Auld Robin Gray," by Mrs. Goodsell, was sung by that lady with the fine musical voice of which she is the fortunate possessor, in a style but few can equal. Among the finest pieces of the evening was the quintette, "Wae's me for Prince Charlie," by Mesdames Cruzan, Wyatt, Goodsell and Messrs. Kinross and Graham. Miss Packard sang "Within a Mile of Edinboro town," which was well received and heartily applauded. Afton Water, as rendered by Mr. Graham was touchingly beautiful, and following it was another gem, "Doun the Burn Davie love," by Mrs. Cruzan. Prof. Henderson's recital of "Tam O'Shanter" was well done, and he was applauded. A new face and voice appeared and made a most favorable impression in "Robin Adair," which was sung by Mrs. J. D. Wilcox, who received a hearty encore, and in response rendered "Coming Thro' the Rye" in a manner which has not been excelled in Portland since it was sung by Madame Anna Bishop. Mrs Wilcox is destined to become a favorite, if she consents to favor this public with a few manifestations of her abilities. Mr. Kinross, who is a master in his profession, gave en costume McGregor's Gathering, and Bruce's Address, in the able manner in which he usually performs his parts. The finale, Auld Lang Syne, by all the ladies and gentlemen before mentioned, was very appropriately given, and the audience dismissed in excellent humor with the entire entertainment.

REPORTS.

The following report was presented by the committee on fire and water, and on motion adopted:

To the Common Council of the City of Portland:

GENTLEMEN:—Your committee on fire and water would report that we have received a proposition from the city of Pendleton to purchase the old hand engine formerly belonging to Tiger Engine Co. No. 5, also 700 feet of old hose, for the sum of $1500—$750 to be paid down and $750 to be paid on the 1st of August, 1880, with good and sufficient security. We would recommend the acceptance of the proposition and ask that we be authorized to consummate the sale.

Report adopted.

The following report was read from the city attorney and placed on file:

OFFICE OF CITY ATTORNEY,
PORTLAND, March 29, 1880.

To the Hon. the Mayor and the Common Council of the City of Portland: GENTLEMEN:—I have to inform you that His Honor Judge Bellinger, on the 22d inst., decided the case of the city vs. C. M. Patterson, adverse to the city, claiming that under the charter the city has no authority to license wagons used in the city in connection with the business carried on by the owner, unless they are used for hire. The decision is one of importance to the city, and I submit the matter to you as to whether an appeal should be taken, remarking, however, that in addition to the authorities cited by Judge Bellinger the supreme court of Illinois in a recent case has held, in a similar clause in the charter of the city of Chicago, that the city had no power to impose such a license. The case therefore appears to me to be one where, if the council desires to license such wagons, further legislation should be had. Respectfully submitted,

J. C. MORELAND, City Attorney.

This report was placed on file.

A long report was read from the city surveyor in relation to the proposed extension of Mill street, and referred to the committee on streets.

CLAIMS.

The following against the city were read and ordered paid:

J. D. Drew, $147 52; Hodge, Davis & Co., $57 03; A. R. Church, $4 55; D. Corcoran, $1; J. J. Kearney, $1.

ORDINANCES.

The following ordinances were reported by the committee on streets:

Providing for the time and manner of improving Front street from Ash to Madison by laying Belgian stone blocks instead of Nicholson. Read three times and passed.

Ordinance repealing ordinance No. 2631 (the ordinance which provided for the improvement of Front street from Ash to Madison by the laying of Nicholson pavement.) Read three times and passed.

Providing for the time and manner of improving First and South First streets from Madison to Wood. Read three times and passed.

Making a transfer of $10 from the general fund to supply a deficiency in the fund for the improvement of Second and North Second street by widening; passed.

From the committee on fire and water, authorizing the purchase of 1000 feet of fire hose; passed.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were read and adopted:

Resolved, That the auditor and clerk give notice that the common council propose to change the grade of South First street and establish the same as follows: At the center of Caruthers, at 125 feet above the base of city grade; at the south side of Sheridan street, at 112 feet; at twenty feet south of the center of Williams street, at 112 feet; at the center of Meade street, at 125 feet; at the center of Hooker street, at 138 feet; at the center of Porter street, at 145 feet, and at the center of Woods street, at 142 feet above the base of city grades. The grade from the center of Caruthers street to the center of Hooker street to conform to a straight line between the points of elevation named.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve Front street from the north line of Ash street to the north line of Madison street, by laying new sidewalks, and by constructing new crosswalks on the east side of the street, the crosswalk plank to be 4 inches in thickness, and by laying plank aprons on the west side of the street.

On motion the council adjourned.

A GOOD THING.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschee's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Brief Sketch of the Life and Services of the Late Isaac Adolph Cremieux.

A memorial service in honor of the late Isaac Adolph Cremieux was held Sunday evening at the synagogue of the Beth Israel congregation under the auspices of the Y. M. H. A. [illegible]. The ritual was impressive in the extreme.

Dr. May, the minister of the congregation, delivered an eloquent eulogy upon the deceased, whose name has long been a cherished one in every Jewish heart, and deserving of the reverence of every lover of liberty and justice throughout the globe.

The venerable French statesman and patriot died in his eighty-fourth year after being a prominent figure and actor in all the great changes of modern time which his nation has undergone. His voice, first heard in public in the vigor of his early youth, was for the equality of men and the rights of conscience, and his last breath was for the same great cause. He was sent to the chamber of deputies in 1842, and re-elected in 1846, becoming the leader of the reformist league.

In 1848 he obtained a promise of abdication from Louis Philippe, but too late to effect the good which he desired and in the interest of law and order he accepted the position of minister of justice in the provisional government which followed. He favored Louis Napoleon as president, but was opposed to his ambitious schemes for empire, and was one of the delegates imprisoned by Napoleon's orders on the memorable night of December 2, 1851, being exiled for his devotion to republican principles. After the death of the empire, Cremieux again assumed the portfolio of justice in the new republic, becoming a prominent member of the national defense government and going with Gambetta, Ranc and Glais Bizoin on the delegation sent from Paris in balloons during the city's investment. He donated 100,000 francs from his own purse towards paying the debt incurred by the German war and was elected a life senator in 1875.

He was a fellow student and comrade of Thiers, and noted always for ready, convincing eloquence and sound judgment. He was a consistent Israelite—proud of his lineage and scrupulous in the discharge of the duties and requirements of his faith. His services for his people were unceasing. With the veteran, Sir Moses Montefiore, of England—a man of his own nature (ten years his senior, and still living)—he visited Egypt, Turkey and Russia, demanding and securing from the potentates of these countries a cessation of the persecutions inflicted upon its unfortunate brethren. He was president of the "Alliance Israelite Universelle" from its incipiency, and though neglecting none of his country's claims upon his time and service, he was ever earnest and active in furthering the objects and extending the influence of the organization.

His home life was almost ideal and one of his leading characteristics was conjugal devotion. In 1874 he celebrated his "golden wedding." His wife was ever his companion and adviser; hand in hand they journeyed through life and she preceded him to the grave but seven days. Her death hastened his, for the blank of her departure can be better imagined than described. We have derived the above information from a delegate to the American board of delegates of the alliance, which met in Philadelphia in 1876, when a letter was read from Cremieux, who had been invited to the conference saying: "My spirit is with you though my body must be absent, my wife cannot travel and my absence grieves her." They are now joined forever in those realms where partings are unknown and where happiness, the reward of a true, earnest life, is enduring as eternity itself.

Modesty.

Modesty is to a woman what the delicate bloom is to the peach—its greatest beauty, but once gone, no human power can restore it. Many modest women suffer in silence for years with the most painful affections of the delicate vital organs of the body, rather than to impart the knowledge of their sufferings to a physician. This great army of martyrs will be rejoiced to know that at last a purely vegetable and harmless remedy has been discovered, which cures immediately all diseases and weakness of the kidney and bladder, no matter of how long standing or of what nature. It is the wonderful OREGON KIDNEY TEA, which is sold by all druggists and challenges the world.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER is a scientific combination of some of the most powerful restorative agents in the vegetable kingdom. It restores gray hair to its original color. It makes the scalp white and clean. It cures dandruff and humors and falling out of the hair. It furnishes the nutritive principle by which the hair is nourished and supported. It makes the hair moist, soft and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a hair dressing. It is the most economical preparation ever offered to the public, as its effects remain a long time, making only an occasional application necessary. It is recommended and used by eminent medical men, and officially indorsed by the State Assayer of Massachusetts. The popularity of Hall's Hair Renewer has increased with the test of many years, both in this country and in foreign lands, and it is now known and used in all the civilized countries of the world. For sale by all dealers. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, wholesale agents.

THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

Pendleton is to be connected by telephone with Umatilla.

The project of dividing Umatilla county into two counties is the great question now in that section.

The ladies of Baker City gave an oyster supper last week for the benefit of the Irish famine fund and raised $200.

A Baker City ordinance requires a red flag to be displayed in front of a residence in which there is a case of diphtheria.

Pendleton Independent: Last week, Dan Drumheller, formerly of this county, but now residing in the Crab creek country, and Wm. Bingham sold 2500 head of cattle for [illegible].

A serious cutting affray took place at a dance at Wheatland last week, between Johnny McClure, Charley Harpole and Dick Plowman, in which McClure received a severe stab in the back. The affair originated from an old grudge, caused by a letter written by one of the parties St. Valentine's day.

Umatilla correspondence: The railroad building makes everything very lively. For two weeks carpenters have been employed in building a bridge across the Umatilla river, which will be about 600 feet in length. The piers are now completed and filled with rock. Mr. Hallett and Mr. Thielsen, the superintendent and engineer, were in town on Saturday last and engaged 160 Chinese to work on the grade at Simmond's landing for 85 cents per day.

A fourteen year old son of Engineer Clough of the tug Canby while stepping on board the Bonita at Astoria Sunday afternoon, fell overboard, and would have been drowned but for the timely assistance of Dan Neal, a deck hand on the Bonita, who climbed down the trestle work under the dock and seized the boy as he was swept past by the current.

PORTLAND
CITY HOMESTEAD.

THE LAND IN THIS ENTERPRISE LIES adjoining the city, and is only from ten to fifteen minutes walk from the court-house, and a less distance than that from one of the best public schools in the city. It is divided into

One Thousand and Twenty-Four Lots,

Fifty by one hundred feet in size, with streets sixty feet wide. Two hundred of these lots will be reserved for those who desire to improve and build this summer and fall. These lots will be sold on the same liberal terms that are offered in the Homestead proper.

Price.

All lots will be sold for $100 each, payable in instalments of $5 per month, or the small sum of 16⅔ cents per day. No interest will be charged, and a good and sufficient Bond for Deed will be given upon the payment of the first installment of $5, and a Warranty Deed upon receipt of last installment, both without expense to purchaser.

Appreciation of Values.

By reference to The Oregonian of Feb. 16th, it will be found that city property has advanced twenty-five per cent during the past year. As there has been no excitement, the rise is wholly attributable to the increasing immigration and the growing confidence inspired by our numerous railroad enterprises, and the development of our many natural resources, that have hitherto slumbered for lack of energetic men to develop them.

It is True,

That of all real estate investments the homestead plan is the best and safest, as all who invest are interested in making the whole property more valuable. To illustrate: Suppose A builds a house on his lot, and B owns a lot adjoining; B gets the benefit of A's improvement, while A is not injured thereby. This philosophy will apply to the entire property.

We have donated a lot to each of the principal churches for church purposes.

In addition to the above, two lots are set apart for public school purposes.

Division.

The division of this property will take place when the lots are all sold, or, in any event, not later than the 28th February, 1881,

at the Mechanics' Pavilion, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M., public notice of which will be given by publication in two principal journals in the State.

It will be made in the manner decided upon by a majority of the purchasers in the Homestead. Parties interested may appoint proxies to act for them if they desire to do so. Parties who do not attend at the time of the division, either in person or by proxy, will be bound by the plan settled upon by the majority of those who do attend.

It is suggested by the purchasers that division might be made by placing the number of each lot and block in a wheel or box and the name of each party interested in the homestead in another—then a name will be drawn from one and a number from the other, and the lot so drawn deeded to the person whose name is so drawn, when all payments are made.

All but the first installment must be paid at the banking house of Ladd & Tilton, in the city of Portland.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 30, 1880.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

MONDAY EVENING, March 29.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Money six; govt's strong, higher. Western Union, 105¼; Erie, 44.

The week opened with very bad weather, and outdoor business shows some decline of the activity noticed during the bright days of last week, but still the volume of trade is fair for the season, and business men generally are preparing for and expecting a prosperous season. Money is in fair supply, and various enterprises are being pushed that will add largely to the aggregate amount of capital in general circulation. The various railroad enterprises will cause the disbursement of a very large sum, the effect of which cannot but be felt on all classes of business. Its stimulating influence has already been seen in the increased demand in this market for various articles consumed by the men and animals employed in the work, the principal inquiry coming from the two companies at work up the Columbia, the Northern Pacific and the Oregon Railway & Navigation company. The two companies to build roads in this valley will very soon begin active and extensive operations and will double the demand for labor and supplies. With these and other enterprises there is every reason for the belief that a more active spring trade will occur this year than has been realized for several years.

In the local markets to-day there are but few new features. As the season lapses, wheat becomes in a lessened degree the principal topic in trade circles and more attention is paid to the markets for salmon, wool and other reasonable commodities. Wool buyers are pretty sure to be numerous and growers will be able to realize all that active competition on the part of shippers will induce. Prices as indicated by opening sales and by contracts made will be at least 8@9c per lb higher than at beginning of last season.

The market for breadstuffs is very quiet and transactions reported during the past few days embrace but few important parcels. Wheat is still held to a considerable extent in the interior, both in this valley and east of the mountains, but it is mostly in the hands of parties who are beyond the views of buyers as to price, or is stored at points inaccessible at the present stage of the rivers, except at unusual expense. The two or three vessels now in port or in the river will about all finish the present week, and the export business will be about over for the season. It is attracting comparatively little attention now. Quotations remain at $1 80@1 87½ as the extremes.

Oats are disposed to advance, as it is thought that the tolerably active demand for the local trade which now prevails will continue throughout until the new crop comes in, and will take up well nigh all the surplus within reach of the market. First class lots for feed sell readily now for 45 cts per bushel, and some extra choice white for milling changed hands at 48¾ cents.

Provisions are in fair demand, but the supply is ample, and prices, though generally steady, are not inclined to advance. Other articles of domestic produce are moderately supplied, and with the exception of potatoes which are slow sale, are in fair request at former quotations.

The Business Situation.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, March 29.—The Commercial Bulletin to-day says that the general trade not only here but throughout the country has been more or less interfered with by the winter like weather of the past few days, but there has been a satisfactory degree of activity in nearly all branches, and with the approach of April and the resumption of navigation this promises to increase. As a rule the leading markets for the moment are remarkably free from speculative excitement, with few that may not be considered as on a healthy basis.

BOSTON, March 29.—The Commercial List in reviewing New England trade for the week says the situation generally is quite satisfactory, and we hear but few complaints in any quarter. Where articles have been left free to follow the natural influences of supply and demand, there has been very little trouble. All kinds of manufactured wares are in good condition and raw materials, with the exception of iron, are doing pretty well. The boot and shoe business continues without much diminution. Manufacturers have all the work they can attend to.

SAN FRANCISCO CHARTERS AND MARKETS.

Wool—A correspondent writing from Delano reports sales within the last two weeks, at that place and Bakersfield, Kern county, at 28, 31, 34 and 36 cents. These purchases are said to have been on San Francisco account. Dealers here claim that our quotations cannot be considered as governing figures for the coming clip. Manufacturers are not buying and it is asserted they are not likely to at these rates. Many purchases that have been made, we are told were simply sample lots for transportation to manufacturing centers. A leading Boston representative stated to-day that the manufacturers of that city had a stock ahead and he did not anticipate the emergency that would necessitate their buying in this market at our quotations. Most of the clip coming to hand is from southern counties, quotable at 27½@32½c for burry, and 33@35c for free.

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet the subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, Renal, Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

CELEBRATED

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

LANDS,

PEN D'OREILLE DIVISION.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY

Is now offering for sale nearly

5,000,000

Acres of its lands in the Pen d'Oreille Division in Eastern Washington which are comprised in the odd numbered sections for forty miles on each side of the railroad as now located from the mouth of Snake River, in Washington Territory, to Lake Pen d'Oreille, in Idaho. These lands, of unexcelled fertility, and adapted to farming on any scale that may be desired, are offered by the Railroad Company at such prices and terms as cannot fail to induce settlement and cultivation, causing a rapid growth in population of the country, and increase in value to those who now purchase.

The following Resolution of the Board of Directors of the Railroad Company, passed November 19th, 1879, fixes the cash price of land to actual settlers at two dollars and sixty cents per acre, which it is believed is a lower price than has ever been commonly placed upon its lands by any land grant company. This is, in fact, cheaper than the settler can purchase the same class of land of the Government, under the pre-emption law, for the expense attending the making of final proof, and the journey to the land office which he must necessarily make in order to complete his entry, is more than the ten cents per acre added to the government price by the Railroad Company:

"Resolved, That the Agricultural Lands of the Company west of the Missouri river to Puget Sound shall be offered for sale to actual settlers at Government price of $2.50 per acre, with an addition thereto of ten cents per acre to be paid to the Company to reimburse it for the cost of selecting, surveying and conveying said land.

"This resolution does not apply to coal or iron lands, nor to lands chiefly valuable for timber, nor to lands required for town sites or suitable for manufacturing sites, nor in regions where water is scarce to lands containing springs or other natural supply, where it shall be for the interest of settlers at large that such water privileges shall not be exclusively held or controlled by any individual; nor to the lands required for the use of the Company in connection with the operation of the road."

To persons wishing to purchase on time, the remarkably low price of four dollars per acre is given on the following terms. One-fourth cash at time of purchase, the balance in four equal yearly payments at 7 per cent. interest. The above price for time sales is adopted for the present, but may be subject to change in the future.

All persons who have filed with the Railroad Company notices of intention to purchase, or "Settlers' Applications," as they are called, for land in this Division (except for the class of lands reserved by the terms of the resolution above given) and who have continued to reside upon or cultivate the land applied for, are requested to complete their purchase by making cash payment, or time contract, for the same. For this purpose application should be made to the Railroad Land Office at Colfax.

Persons who have not made actual settlement or improvement upon land they may have applied for, have no right to the first privilege of purchase; such lands will be sold to the first applicant. Those persons who have in good faith settled upon and improved the Company's land should lose no time in securing the same, as after a given time the land is subject to sale to any other person.

The land in this division being now offered for sale, no more "Settlers' Applications" will be filed. All communications respecting land in the following described townships—

DRY GOODS!

The year 1880 promises, from present indications to be the most prosperous season Oregon has experienced since its admission to the family of States. Immigration will pour in, railroads will be built, bridges erected, and localities hitherto inaccessible will be connected with the business centers and distributing depots of the State. This will augment business and require large supplies of merchandise to meet the changed condition of things.

We have anticipated the increased demand that will spring up for all classes of goods, and our purchases of SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of Seminal Weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

SUPPLEMENT

[illegible]DAY MORNING MARCH [illegible] 1880

WEEKLY PAPERS AND THE NEWS

When Sammy of the Willamette Farmer strives to glorify himself and is backed up in his sublime effort by Tony of the Standard he expects requital in kind the [illegible] is ex- [illegible] in a rather amusing way. The Farmer and Standard are now run as [illegible] concern, mostly with the same [illegible]. True, they agree in nothing very w[illegible] lying about THE OREGONIAN and stealing its news, but this is a bond of fellowship [illegible] cements them as brothers. Some [illegible] got a copy of the Farmer of last week and we find a characteristic piece of stealing [illegible] THE OREGONIAN which the other [illegible] of the concern (the Standard) [illegible] great pleasure to reprint. Running over [illegible] of the Farmer we find most of its [illegible] to be matter set up in the type of [illegible] and lifted bodily out of that [illegible]. The same matter had already [illegible] by Tony's Standard from [illegible] before Sammy's Farmer got [illegible] we find it a poor and [illegible] or mutilation—of the [illegible] and general news previously published by THE OREGONIAN. The Standard re- [illegible] from this paper and the Farmer then [illegible] it—in type—from the Standard to [illegible] expense of composition. Local matter—[illegible] already used by the Standard is run [illegible] Farmer in the same way. Then a few [illegible] articles are set up in the biggest type [illegible] be had, in order to fill space at least. [illegible] Finally, the balance of the Farmer [illegible] with a class of advertisements taken [illegible] anything that can be got the rates being [illegible] that no newspaper of any circulation worth naming could afford to insert [illegible]. This is the Willamette Farmer. The [illegible] now before us contains, besides one [illegible] remarkable editorials in which as [illegible] stated, Sammy is wont to exalt and [illegible] himself. He claims for his Farmer a [illegible] circulation than THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN [illegible] the best farming districts of the Willamette valley," and says we "go to the [illegible] of the Farmer in this city [illegible] make" false statements as to [illegible] Farmer's) circulation." Now the [illegible] circulation of the Willamette Farmer [illegible] nominal. The whole of it might [illegible] from the circulation of the WEEKLY [illegible] and scarcely missed. The other [illegible] from Sammy, above quoted, is only [illegible] he has of trying to make out [illegible] favor of the importance he assumes [illegible]. When he came to Portland [illegible] he began at once to attack this journal and to represent its reports as un- [illegible], though all the news his Farmer [illegible] had, is cribbed from it. He now [illegible] himself as to allege that his [illegible] "is identical with that in THE OREGONIAN." He means to say that [illegible] from the DAILY OREGONIAN. He [illegible] to some extent,—through the Stand-[illegible] above explained,—but he doesn't print [illegible] part of even the most important [illegible] he and his associate, joining [illegible] can't get it in type, and his paper [illegible] hold it if he could. In one issue [illegible] WEEKLY OREGONIAN more news and [illegible] matter is printed than in six issues of [illegible], and the postage account at the [illegible] department shows that THE WEEKLY [illegible] pays five dollars in postage [illegible] Farmer pays one. This is a test of [illegible] and business. The fact is, THE OREGONIAN has far more country [illegible] than all the other weekly papers [illegible] Portland. It is the only paper of [illegible] circulation in all the agricultural [illegible] of Oregon and Washington, as all [illegible] have observed whose business re- [illegible] them to travel through the country. [illegible], besides, from one to three days' [illegible] in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN, both [illegible] and commercial, than is published or [illegible] published by any other weekly in the [illegible] observe that the telegraphic reports are [illegible] exclusively by THE OREGONIAN and [illegible] be published through its columns before [illegible] other paper can reach them. We state [illegible] facts now, once for all, as a proper an- [illegible] to such gasconading as that of the [illegible] and of its associate in misery, the [illegible], which tries the impossible feat of [illegible] a newspaper without any news to print [illegible] same has first appeared in THE OREGONIAN. When these mountebank journals [illegible] to mind their own business strictly, [illegible] themselves with reprinting a meagre [illegible] of the matter that has appeared in [illegible] columns, which is all they can do and [illegible] their lying scurrility about THE OREGONIAN they shall find immunity from these [illegible] exposures. But we tolerate no [illegible] when there is an attempt to [illegible] it in this journal's name [illegible] who want the news will go for it to [illegible] original source, and not to those so-called [illegible] papers whose only claim to patronage is [illegible] profession that they "give the news [illegible] it appears in THE OREGONIAN." The [illegible] they reprint a meagre and stale re- [illegible] while all the later and much of the [illegible] important news runs through our [illegible] as well as daily before they get at it, [illegible] the latest, fullest and most impor- [illegible] commercial and market news. Both the [illegible] and Standard are in the extremely dis- [illegible] business of working over news [illegible] chiefs to THE OREGONIAN and try [illegible] sell it as their own. And because they [illegible] succeed in this method of swindling [illegible] can hardly keep from starvation by it [illegible] regard this journal with an envy and [illegible] which have become the controlling [illegible] of their existence.

[illegible] interesting contribution has been made [illegible] Cologne Zeitung to the old question [illegible] Shylock a Jew? A writer in that paper [illegible] discovered in Gregorio Leti's Life of Pope Sixtus V," a story of which, with the wri- [illegible] comments, the following is a condensa- [illegible]: Ten years before the probable date of [illegible] production of Shakespeare's play a Ro- [illegible] merchant named Paul Maria Secchi and [illegible] was good Catholic Christian learned [illegible] Sir Francis Drake had conquered San [illegible] Domingo. He imparted his news to a Jew [illegible] trader, Simson Ceneda, who either disbe- [illegible] it or had an interest in making it ap- [illegible] so, and obstinately contested the truth [illegible] of the merchant's statement. To emphasize [illegible] contradiction, he added he would stake a [illegible] pound-weight of his flesh on the contrary. The Christian took him at his word staking [illegible] scudi against the pound of flesh, and [illegible] bet was attested by two witnesses. On [illegible] truth of Drake's conquest being con- [illegible] firmed, the Christian demanded the fulfil- [illegible] ment of the wager. In vain the Jew offered [illegible] money instead of the stake he had agreed to [illegible] and finally appealed to the governor. The [illegible] governor appealed to the pope who sentenced [illegible] them both to the galleys, a punishment they [illegible] were allowed to make up for by a payment of [illegible] 2000 scudi each to the Hospital of the Sixtine [illegible] Bridge. Leti's "Life of Sixtus V" was pub- [illegible] lished in 1669, at Lausanne. Catholic wri- [illegible] ters, we are told, have never looked upon it [illegible] with any favor, but whether trustworthy his [illegible] story or not, this story is curious.

DECISION IN THE U S CIRCUIT COURT

DEADY J

[illegible]

(2) [illegible] the national courts in the application of a statute of the state or a rule of law concerning the title to real property that they will follow the settled construction of the statute or application of the rule made by the highest court of the state but where there is but one decision of such court which clearly appears to have been made upon a misapprehension of the terms of the statute and against the plain letter and purpose of it the court declines to follow it.

(3) [illegible] JUDGMENT DEBTOR Under § 301 of the Civ Code a redemption by a judgment debtor or his successor in interest whether made before or after the confirmation of the sale terminates the effect thereof and no further redemption can be had thereon or by reason of it.

DEADY J

This suit is brought by Louis A Launat a citizen of Massachusetts against J A Stratton, C H Hall and Mary R his wife citizens of Oregon to annul and set aside a sheriff's deed to said Stratton for a certain tract of land situated in Marion county the same being a portion of the north half of the donation No [illegible] granted to A F Waller and wife and containing 35 acres or to compel said Stratton to convey the same to the plaintiff.

The defendants demur to the bill for want of equity and that the said C H Hall and Mary his wife, are not proper parties to the suit.

The material facts stated in the bill are that in September, 1878 Hessie J Shane the wife of T A Shane purchased the premises of said Mary R and the same were by said C H Hall and Mary R then conveyed to said Hessie J subject, however to two certain mortgages thereon, executed by said Hall and wife, the one on January 1 1877, to Charles Swegle to secure the payment of $1500 with interest at 1 per centum per month the other on September 7 1878 to E N Cooke to secure the payment of $1200 with like interest that said Hessie J entered upon and took possession of the premises at the date of such conveyance to her and has ever since continued to occupy the same; that in February 1879 said Swegle brought a suit to enforce the lien of his mortgage in the circuit court of the state for Marion county, making the said Hall and wife Shane and wife and Cooke defendants therein that the said Hall and wife and Cooke answered the complaint alleging that said mortgage to Cooke was made in trust for said Mary R, and asking the court to correct a mistake in the description therein and that the remainder of the proceeds of the sale of the premises after satisfying the debt of Swegle if any, be retained by the court to await the determination of a suit then pending in said circuit court between said Hall and wife and Shane and wife to cancel and annul the conveyance aforesaid to said Hessie J that said circuit court on March 8 1879 made a decree in the suit of said Swegle, to the effect, that the mortgage of Cooke was made in trust for said Mary R and that the mistake in the description be corrected, that the premises be sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of Swegle's debt, and the surplus if any, be paid to Cooke as trustee, and that the defendants and all persons claiming under said Hall and wife after January 2, 1877, were thereby barred and foreclosed of all liens or interest or equity of redemption in the premises.

That on May 10 1879 the sheriff in pursuance of said decree, duly sold said premises to the attorney for Swegle, the defendant Stratton, subject to redemption, for $1800, that sum being the then amount of Swegle's debt and cost of suit, which sale was afterwards duly confirmed that on August 5, 1879, said Hessie J conveyed her interest in the premises to one Clarno and Liebe, in trust, that they would advance the money and redeem the premises for her benefit, which they did, and that by virtue of such decree and sale the lien of said Cooke upon the premises was extinguished and said Clarno and Liebe from the time of said conveyance and redemption became the owners of the same, freed from said lien, that said Stratton, well knowing this fact, did on September 22 1879, as the assignee of the said Cooke mortgage redeem the said premises from said Clarno and Liebe, who, in ignorance and mistake of their rights and those of said Hessie J and without her consent or knowledge, received the sum of $1964 paid by said Stratton upon said redemption.

That in October 1879, said Clarno and Liebe reconveyed the premises to said Hessie J, who in November following conveyed the same to the plaintiff that on the 28th of the same month the plaintiff duly tendered to said Stratton on account of the payment made by him on said last mentioned redemption the sum of $1975 upon condition that said Stratton would release to him all claim upon said land by reason of said assignment and "attempted redemption," which offer was not accepted or answered, and that said Stratton by means of said redemption has obtained the sheriff's deed to the premises, which are of the present value of about $3500.

On the argument, nothing was said in support of the cause of demurrer that the Halls are not proper parties to the suit. The Cooke mortgage having been made in trust for Mary R Hall, she is the beneficiary thereof and therefore a necessary party to any suit concerning the same. Story's Eq Plead § 207 ? And C H Hall being her husband is properly joined with her. The demurrer in this respect is not well taken.

The argument in support of the first ground of demurrer is that the decree and sale in Swegle's suit did not affect the lien of Cooke's mortgage, and that therefore the owner thereof was still a creditor having a lien by mortgage on the property sold subsequent in time to that on which it was sold within the purview of sub 2 of § 297 of the Or Civ Code and entitled to redeem the same. In support of this proposition the only authority cited is Chavener v Wood, 2 Or 155.

The Civ Code (§§ 410 14) provides for the enforcement or foreclosure of the lien of a mortgage by a suit in equity in which the property subject to the lien shall be sold to satisfy the debt secured thereby (§ 410). Any person having a lien upon the property subsequent to the plaintiff must be made a defendant in the suit (§ 411). When it is adjudged in such suit that any of the defendants have a lien upon the property the court shall make a like decree in relation thereto and the debt secured thereby as if such defendant were a plaintiff in the suit and such decree shall determine and specify the order in which the debts secured by such liens shall be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale of the property (§ 412).

This decree, in the first instance is enforced by means of an execution against the property adjudged to be sold, and if the decree is in favor of different persons not united in interest the execution can only issue upon their joint application or by the order of the court upon the motion of either of them. When the decree is also in personam as it may be where there is also a promissory note or other personal obligation for the payment of the debt and the proceeds of the sale of the property upon which the lien is foreclosed are not sufficient to satisfy the decree as to the sum remaining unsatisfied the de- [illegible] or may be enforced by an execution [illegible] the sale of the property [illegible] shall be deemed a separate decree and may be enforced accordingly. [illegible] The decree has the effect [illegible] the equity of redemption [illegible] here it may be redeemed [illegible] like [illegible] as property [illegible] on a judgment [illegible] 311

In Frank v Murphy [illegible] held but with apparent hesitation [illegible] that a subsequent incumbrancer who was a party defendant to a suit to enforce the lien of a mortgage might redeem the property from the purchaser at a sale upon the decree that ascertained and provided for the payment of his debt from the proceeds thereof but which was not sufficient for that purpose saying [illegible] considering the whole system of redemptions as altered by our statutes we [illegible] the phrase on which the property was sold must be held to refer to the lien which the action was brought to enforce and that it does not apply to the liens of subsequent incumbrancers who are made parties.

But the statute of California did not provide that the decree should determine the rights or make any provision for the benefit of the subsequent incumbrancer and therefore the opinion was confined to the right and relief of the plaintiff and as incident thereto cutting off the subsequent incumbrancer's equity of redemption. [illegible] Laws [illegible] §§ 260 7. And the court in Finch v Murphy say that it was not the practice in that state to make provision in the decree for the benefit of subsequent incumbrancers.

In Chavener v Wood supra so far as in point the case was that the plaintiff had a mortgage upon the interest of [illegible] in a certain parcel of land and Wood had a subsequent mortgage upon the same interest. The premises were sold upon a decree made in a suit brought by Chavener to enforce the lien of his mortgage to which Wood as a subsequent incumbrancer was made a party. A decree was made ascertaining the rights of both parties in the premises and directing a sale and that the proceeds be applied in satisfaction of their claims in the order of their priority. At the sale Chavener became the purchaser and the sheriff allowed Wood to redeem upon the assumption that he was still a creditor having a lien by mortgage upon the property sold. Upon the application of Chavener the court—Prim J—set aside the redemption as illegal and Wood appealed. The supreme court reversed the decision holding—Shattuck J—that the sale was made upon the execution of Chavener to satisfy his separate decree and not that of Wood and therefore the lien of the latter was not extinguished and he might redeem. But this conclusion appears to depend upon a misapprehension of the terms of the statute. The opinion assumes that by § 413 supra, a decree for the sale of mortgaged premises to satisfy the liens thereon of both the plaintiff and defendant is in such respect a separate decree as to each and may be enforced accordingly. But this is clearly a mistake. The decree is not the separate decree of either party so far as it relates to the sale of the property, but only when and so far as it is or becomes a mere decree for the recovery of money. And therefore when the proceeds of the sale of the mortgaged premises are insufficient to satisfy the whole decree, thereafter and as to any sum remaining unsatisfied, it is a mere decree for the recovery of money and may be enforced accordingly. And in "such case," if "the decree is in favor of different persons not united in interest then it shall be deemed the separate decree of each of them and may be enforced as such."

But it matters not how many parties there are to the suit having a lien upon the premises, or whether they are plaintiffs or defendants, so far as such liens are concerned there is but one decree, and this decree ascertains and determines the respective rights in the premises of all the lienholders as if they were all plaintiffs in the case, and directs the sale of the premises to satisfy the same. The execution which is nothing but a venditioni exponas or order of sale, to enforce this portion of the decree, is the process of all the parties for whose benefit the decree directs the sale to be made. The decree and sale operate to extinguish the lien upon the premises of all the parties alike and therefore it only exists against the proceeds of the sale. The Code (§ 412) expressly provides that the "debts secured by such liens"—that is the liens ascertained and determined by the decree—"shall be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale of the property."

It cannot be denied and is admitted that if the sale was made in pursuance of a decree in favor of Cooke as mortgagee and upon process to enforce such decree as to his lien as well as that of Swegle, that his lien was thereby extinguished. Sheperd v O'Neil, 4 Barb 125; Wood v Colvin 5 Hill 228; ex parte Stevens, 4 Cow 133; Frank v. Murphy supra 112. And it appears to me almost too plain for argument that such and none other is the very effect which the statute gives to this proceeding.

The lien of the Cooke mortgage having been extinguished by the sale upon the decree to enforce the lien thereof the defendant Stratton as the assignee of Cooke had no lien upon the property sold, and therefore no right of redemption under the statute. If he wanted the property at any figure beyond the amount due Swegle he should have overbid him at the sale.

The policy of the statute is to make the property pay the debts of the owner as far as possible. To this end it is provided, that as to all the creditors who are parties to the decree, the property shall be absolutely disposed of at one sale to the highest bidder upon an execution which is in legal intendment and effect the process of all of them. By this means the interest of the creditors is made to promote a healthy competition at the sale for the benefit of the debtor. But to allow the property to be sold to any one of the creditors for the amount of his debt and costs upon the understanding that the other creditors whose liens are subsequent in point of time may protect themselves by redeeming from him and one another would be to provide in effect that the property should be knocked down to the prior lien creditor for not more than the amount of his debt and costs subject to the right of redemption by the junior creditors.

Besides if the lien of the subsequent incumbrancer is not extinguished by the sale what is there to prevent him from enforcing the decree as to himself by execution? It appears to follow as a logical and legal consequence from the premises that if his lien is neither extinguished nor satisfied by the sale and the decree has ascertained the fact and amount of his lien and directed the premises to be sold to satisfy it that he has this remedy by execution against the property and may re-sell it subject to prior incumbrances. And this process may be repeated under like circumstances by every other incumbrancer. But the statute certainly never contemplated such an absurdity, let alone injustice as this.

The right of redemption is only given as a protection against a sale to which the redemptioner is not a party and therefore cannot control but which may result to his injury. In the very nature of things the right to redeem is inconsistent with the right to sell.

The right to redeem from a sale upon a decree to enforce the lien of a mortgage is given by the statute in like manner and with like effect as in the case of property sold on a judgment at law and not otherwise. Civ Code § 414. The plaintiff in the execution—the party for whose benefit or relief the property is sold—has no more right to redeem or reason for so doing in the one case than the other. He causes the sale—it is his act and he cannot annul it or obviate the effects of it by redemption. His means of protection against an improvident sale are ample. He can choose his own time to offer the property for sale and then if need be he can take it for his debt and costs by bidding that sum for it.

No question is made [illegible] is entitled [illegible] no right [illegible] lowed by [illegible] and [illegible] till they [illegible] to the [illegible] but [illegible] redemption [illegible] law that [illegible] assert his right to [illegible] such redemption [illegible]

[illegible] still ready to [illegible]

Then as to this point the case must turn upon the question whether this court will follow the ruling in Chavener v Wood [illegible] decide this case according to the plain letter and intent of the statute. It is the established law of the national courts that in the application of a statute of the state or a rule of law relating to the title to real property they will follow the settled construction of the statute or application of the rule made by the highest court of the state. Polk's Lessee v Wendal [illegible]; Jackson v Chew 12 Wheat 1; Nichols v Levy 5 Wall 41.

The propriety and even necessity of this rule is admitted. But under the circumstances I am loth to accept this single decision as the settled construction of the statute. It appears to have been made upon a misapprehension of its provisions and when brought to the attention of the court will doubtless be corrected. Its application in this case would work a very serious injustice to Hessie J Shane or her grantee.

But upon a further examination of the code it is clear to my mind that the redemption by Clarno and Liebe put an end to the effects of the sale and prevented any further redemption by any one.

By § 300 [illegible] it is provided that the judgment debtor or his successor in interest may redeem at any time prior to the confirmation of sale on certain terms therein specified and also after confirmation of the sale but in such case only within the time and upon the terms allowed to a lien creditor. But "if the judgment debtor redeem at anytime before the time for redemption expires the effect of the sale shall be terminated and he shall be restored to his estate."

At the date of the mortgages to Swegle and Cooke Mary Hall was the owner of this property and for the purpose of redemption is to be deemed the judgment debtor in the decree providing for the enforcement of the liens of said mortgages. But at the date of this decree Hessie J Shane had become the successor in interest of Mary R Hall and before the redemption by Stratton, Clarno and Liebe had succeeded to her interest and sustained the same relation to this decree as the successor in interest of a judgment debtor in judgment at law. A redemption then, by either of the successors in interest of Mary R Hall, at any time while the property was subject to redemption whether before or after the confirmation of the sale put an end to the proceeding and thereafter such successor held the property as though no sale of the same had ever been made.

While a judgment debtor who redeems after the confirmation of the sale, must as to time and terms redeem as a lien creditor the effect of such redemption is different. For in case of a redemption by a judgment debtor at any time—whether before or after confirmation of sale—the statute declares in so many words that the effect of it shall be to terminate the proceeding and restore him to his estate. The sale is functus officio and no further redemption can be had thereon or by reason of it. Upon this view of the subject it follows of course that the redemption by Stratton was illegal, and the deed to him from the sheriff is either null and void or received in trust for the person entitled to it—Hessie J Shane or her successor in interest.

The demurrer is overruled, and the plaintiff is entitled to the relief sought against the defendants, upon the repayment to Stratton of the sum of $1964 with legal interest from the date of its receipt by Clarno and Liebe to November 28 1879, the date of the offer to return it to him.

W B Gilbert for the plaintiff
Walter W Thayer for the defendants

MR. TILDEN'S PLANS AND HIS OPPONENTS.

Attitude of the South Towards Tilden—Assertion that his Nomination would Break the "Solid South"

[Washington Special to the New York Herald]

The question "What does Mr Tilden mean to do?" is just now earnestly discussed among the democrats in Washington, and there is a general and growing belief that he is taking measures to control the Cincinnati convention and that though he may not now have made up his mind to be the candidate if he secures the control he aims at he may take the nomination himself. This view of the situation is the basis of some very interesting and possibly important discussions among southern and southwestern democrats and these discussions have now gone so far as to make it certain that Mr Tilden's nomination will lead to a bolt of the democrats in several southern states, which might lose him South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and probably Virginia and North Carolina.

POSITION OF THE OPPOSITION

To comprehend the strength and determination of the opposition to Mr Tilden in those states it is necessary to recall some of the history of 1876-7. When it became evident that the presidential struggle was to be completed in congress, personal and political friends of Mr Hayes came here to survey the situation and to discover, if possible a weak place in the Tilden lines. They were astute men, and they found out, after a while, that Mr Tilden was weak in the south. The southern states especially Louisiana and South Carolina desired local self government under the constitution and provided they got this they cared but little who was president. They were at first prepared to make a stand for Mr Tilden, but leading men in several southern states soon found that Mr Tilden had views and would have a policy on several subjects to which they and their people were strongly averse. Louisiana for instance is a protectionist state, and Mr Tilden is a free trader. A great part of the south including all the states above mentioned is in favor of liberal appropriations for internal improvements and it was discovered that Mr Tilden was against internal improvements by the general government, except on an extremely economical scale. The construction of the Southern Pacific railroad by a government subsidy was at that time a question before congress one in which the southwestern states took so great an interest that none of their public men dared to oppose this scheme or perhaps none were inclined to but on a certain occasion when it was thought that Mr Tilden was sure to be put in notice came here to democratic members of congress that when Mr Tilden was in the White House no democratic senator or representative who should venture to support the Texas Pacific bill need show his face there.

A NOT ACCEPTABLE POLICY

The possibility and probability even that Mr Tilden would become president naturally led to a very close scrutiny of his policy and this prepared the minds of a considerable number of southern democrats to care very little whether he got in or not if they could be assured of the control of their state affairs under the constitution and the Hayes men were alert enough to make engagements to that effect. But when this was made sure southern and southwestern democrats saw that the other questions tariff internal improvements and subsidies—could not fare worse and might fare better under Mr Hayes than Mr Tilden. When they began to see this and wavered then the shrewd republicans began to talk about a new war and this settled the matter for the south did [illegible] and [illegible] want war [illegible]

[illegible] democrats [illegible] We have had [illegible] want peace [illegible] Mr [illegible]

[illegible]

Now what made Mr Tilden [illegible] for not only has he [illegible] distasteful to southwestern [illegible] know that he knows that [illegible] caused his [illegible] a man [illegible] called that [illegible] abhor [illegible] The revelations [illegible] the railroad speculation [illegible] Mr Tilden of a large sum of money which he had taken [illegible] make him in their eyes an unfit man for the presidency. It is no extravagant thing [illegible] to say that his nomination would just as certainly lead to a bolt in four or five southern states as it will lead to a bolt in New York. What will these southwestern democrats do? Well a good many of them say that they will vote for any republican candidate rather than Tilden. They say they are tired of a struggle in which even if they should win they would have a policy hateful to them imposed upon them. Mr Hayes if he were renominated would undoubtedly carry more of those states than any one else on the republican side. He has done no favors to the southern democrats but he has at least treated them as human beings, has given them fair play and with it peace, order and constitutional government. Since 1877 the south has begun to be prosperous and prosperity means contentment. Mr Blaine in spite of his strong stalwart record would carry several southern states against Mr Tilden. The southern men believe that he has a kindly heart and they know that he meets their views on the tariff and on subsidies and internal improvements. The ex president if he were nominated at Chicago would carry several of the southern states against Tilden. Southwestern democrats say: "We made a mistake with him before but we shall not repeat it. He sticks to his friends and we mean to be among his friends. Under the last administration we kept away from the White House, and the carpet baggers stayed there. If he comes in again we will support him; he will find us among his most serviceable and surest friends. He will have to depend on the south before he gets through and we mean to show him that he may depend on us to the bitter end."

MR TILDEN'S PLAN

Of course Mr Tilden knows the situation thoroughly. It is said here that he has made up his mind that a large part of the south would be equally hostile to him or to his candidate, and it is admitted that if he does not run himself he means to name the man. He has, therefore, report here says made up his mind to do without a solid south, and holds that the democrats can carry northern states enough to make up the deficiency. In 1876 three southern states were given to Mr Hayes—Louisiana, South Carolina and Florida—and with these he had but 185 votes just enough to elect. Giving these to the republicans again would not change the old list. But add Arkansas six votes, Mississippi, eight, North Carolina ten and Virginia eleven this would make it necessary for the democrats to gain thirty five votes in the north and it is remarked by Tilden men that to carry California six votes, Oregon, three, Ohio, twenty two and Wisconsin ten would give them forty-one in exchange for the southern states surrendered. They count of course, on New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Indiana being democratic as before, and they add that a good many of the so called republican states are held by only a plurality. Thus in Illinois in 1878 the republicans got less than thirty-seven per cent of the total vote. In Michigan they had less than forty five per cent, Ohio was carried against a weak democrat last year by only 3392 votes in a total of 669,000, while in 1878 the republicans polled less than forty-seven per cent of the vote cast and in 1876 Hayes had less than 4000 majority. It is believed in some democratic quarters here to be Mr Tilden's plan for the fall campaign. But at bottom few, even of the Tilden men, believe that he means to run himself. They say, however that he means to make the ticket and the platform.

THIRTEENTH LIGHTHOUSE DISTRICT.

Extracts from the Annual Report of the Lighthouse Board

The annual report of the lighthouse board to the secretary of the treasury, for the fiscal year ending June 30 1879 has been placed on our table through the courtesy of Capt C G Reiter lighthouse inspector for the thirteenth district.

From the report, the following information is obtained concerning this (the thirteenth) lighthouse district.

The thirteenth lighthouse district embraces all aids to navigation on the Pacific Coast north of the boundary of Oregon. It extends from the 41st parallel of latitude to British Columbia.

There are in this district—Lighthouses 13, light ships 0, fog signals operated by steam or hot air engines 3, day or unlighted beacons 19, buoys actually in position 51, spare buoys for relief and to supply losses, 71.

The following are the names of the light houses in this district: Cape Blanco, Cape Arago, St Helens range lights, Cape Disappointment, Shoalwater Bay, Cape Flattery, New Dungeness, Smith's or Blunt's Island, Point Wilson, Point no Point.

The report contains recommendations for light stations as follows: Foulweather Bluff recommendation of $8000; West Point (Sandy Point) an appropriation of $10,000 is recommended; Robinson's Point, $7000 recommended; Sand Island, (mouth of the Columbia) $76,000 recommended; mouth of the Willamette $2500 recommended.

DAY OR UNLIGHTED BEACONS

There are 21 structures which serve as day beacons in this district.

The ruins of an old lighthouse serve to mark the mouth of the Umpqua river, sea coast of Oregon. Four single piles with cross boards on top mark channel from Marshfield to Empire City Coos Bay. The tower of the discontinued light marks the entrance to Yaquina Bay. Two framed beacons painted white on Sand Island mouth of the Columbia give the range inside the bar for entering, and leaving by the south channel.

Nine single piles with cross boards at top mark the channel between Tongue Point and Woody Island Columbia river.

Two wooden tripods painted white from which lights are suspended at night mark the channel across St Helens bar Columbia river.

A group of seven piles closely driven and chained with three sets of cross boards on opposite sides at top mark the north end of Three Tree Island inside the mouth of the Willamette river.

A single pile with cross board on top marks a shoal off Minor Island near Smith's Island straits of Fuca.

The following fog signals are operated by steam engines: Point Adams (a 12 inch whistle), Cape Flattery (a 12 inch whistle), New Dungeness (a 12 inch whistle).

BUOYAGE.

The buoyage of the district is as efficient as it can be made with the means now at the board's disposal, but it is sadly out of proportion to the wants of the district. The Columbia river from its mouth to the Dalles and the Willamette from Oregon City to its junction with the Columbia 12 miles below the city of Portland will be thoroughly buoyed as soon as a steamer is assigned permanently to the district when also more buoys will be placed on the bar at the mouth of the Columbia river.

DEPOT

During the past year the wharf at the buoy depot on Tongue Point four miles above Astoria has been enlarged and on it a coal shed has been constructed which will admit of the storage of sufficient coal for the supply of the light house tender and fog signals.

When Dr Felton and Mr Gibson southern members united with the agents of the monopolies in a vain and foolish attempt to postpone tariff reform they grossly misrepresented the people who elected them.

NEW YORK March 29 Money easy governments strong higher [illegible]

[illegible] opened with very bad weather and outdoor business shows some decline of the activity noticed during the bright days of last week but still the volume of trade is fair for the season and business men generally are preparing and expecting a prosperous season [illegible] supply and various enterprises [illegible] that will largely [illegible] capital [illegible] very large [illegible] felt on all classes of business [illegible] market [illegible] by the [illegible] the work [illegible] company [illegible] valley [illegible] operations [illegible] there is every reason for the belief that a more active spring trade will occur this year than has been realized for several years

In the local markets to day there are but few new features As the season advances what at one time was a lessened degree [illegible] trade [illegible] cles and more attention is paid to the markets for salmon wool and other seasonable commodities Wool buyers are pretty sure to be numerous and growers will be able to realize [illegible] that active competition on the part of shippers will induce Prices as indicated by opening sales and by contracts made will be at least 8@9c per lb higher than at beginning of last season

The market for breadstuffs is very quiet and transactions reported during the past few days embrace but few important parcels Wheat is still held to a considerable extent in the interior both in this valley and east of the mountains but it is mostly in the hands of parties who are beyond the views of buyers as to price or is stored at points inaccessible at the present stage of the rivers except at unusual expense The two or three vessels now in port or in the river will about all finish the present week and the export business will be about over for the season It is attracting comparatively little attention now Quotations remain at $1 60@1 67½ as the extremes

Oats are disposed to advance as it is thought that the tolerably active demand for the local trade which now prevails will continue throughout until the new crop comes in and will take up well nigh all the surplus within reach of the market. First class lots for feed sell readily now for 45 cts per bushel, and some extra choice white for milling changed hands at 48½ cents

Provisions are in fair demand, but the supply is ample and prices, though generally steady are not inclined to advance Other articles of domestic produce are moderately supplied and with the exception of potatoes which are slow sale are in fair request at former quotations

The Business Situation.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

NEW YORK, March 29 —The Commercial Bulletin to day says that the general trade not only here but throughout the country has been more or less interfered with by the winter like weather of the past few days, but there has been a satisfactory degree of activity in nearly all branches and with the approach of April and the resumption of navigation this promises to increase. As a rule the leading markets for the moment are remarkably free from speculative excitement with few that may not be considered as on a healthy basis.

BOSTON, March 29 —The Commercial List in reviewing New England trade for the week says the situation generally is quite satisfactory, and we hear but few complaints in any quarter Where articles have been left free to follow the natural influences of supply and demand, there has been very little trouble. All kinds of manufactured wares are in good condition and raw materials, with the exception of iron, are doing pretty well The boot and shoe business continues without much diminution. Manufacturers have all the work they can attend to

THE PUZZLED MAID

The cows are housed the milking done
The sheep are in the fold
I hear the vespers of the birds
Across the dewy wold
The mowers from the marsh come in
The sunset bells have tolled
I see the loom like silhouettes
Against the sunset gold

And flashing o'er their loosened sails
From some last lingering ray
A fleet of homeward fishing boats
Come rippling up the bay
I hear the closing of the forge
That clinks across the way
And as he doffs his frock the strain
Of George's roundelay

Another minute with a bound
He will beside me be
While fisher John comes from the wharves
And Joseph from the lea
My heart is torn to choose betwixt
With all a wooing me
I think—perhaps 'twill be as well—
To try and love all three

WHY UNCLE GEORGE DID NOT MARRY

We were all at the sea shore passing a few weeks of the hot season Mark the eldest was accompanied by his affianced Henry number two was similarly favored or nearly so the presence of the particular one was not wanting and I, the least in years of us brothers, was blessed with the acquaintance and society of a number of angelic creatures for whom I had a sincere hankering all at the same hotel, and all sufficiently gifted with sentiment to enjoy to the full that happiness which alone comes from social intercourse between the sexes

Uncle George the hero of my story (I had almost forgotten him) was also with us for a night only business with the proprietor of the hotel brought him amongst us We, that is, the male portion of our family, were comfortably seated on the piazza attached to the "sea view" wing of our abiding place three of us taking our after-supper smoke, (Uncle George never smokes) and indulging in animated talk about the pleasures of the day our female companions and their loveliness being the chief topic of conversation

We had about exhausted the Queen's English, and our own small stock of French in praise of our fair sisters, when Uncle George, who had been a listener up to this time, abruptly remarked—

"Boys, it seems to me that you are women mad can't you think of something more profitable to talk about ?"

'Well, that remark sobered us a little, and for a moment silence's reign was undisputed Mark, a little bolder than the rest of us (we had great respect for Uncle George) ventured, with a half tragic air to ask—

"Could you suggest any grander theme than women—our mother, sisters and sweethearts ?"

"Yes," quickly replied Uncle George "Realities versus Delusions "

At this juncture Henry was struck with an idea, and observed

"Uncle George, we youngsters have monopolized the conversation thus far and it is clearly your turn now Won't you enlighten us upon a certain subject about which we are all in the dark ?

'What might that be ?'

"Why you never married ?"

"Humph !' said Uncle George If it would give you as much pleasure as it would occasion pain to me, you would be highly entertained "

My curiosity being excited, I remarked—

"Uncle, there are three of us and only one of you, so, the pleasure being to the pain as three to one, it is certainly your duty to suffer a little martyrdom for our benefit '

"Well, you shall know then, why I never married. It may do you good When I was a young man, I entered the manufacturing house of Ball & Co as a clerk The position which I held, that of chief salesman, gave me a knowledge of the wants of customers, and necessarily brought me in daily contact with the master mechanic of the concern

"This gentleman was a man of considerable ability and much goodness of heart We became intimate—socially and fast friends He was married His wife was, to all appearances, an estimable lady—loving and unselfish. I was a frequent visitor at their house, their society being particularly pleasurable to me, and I had reason to believe my presence was equally agreeable to them I often thought that, if I had a wife to grace my home like the one possessed by John Rivers, I should be contented and happy

"After awhile a visitor arrived at the Rivers' mansion—a sister of the wife This sister was younger fairer and more beautiful in every respect than the madam I as might be expected, took a great fancy to the new comer An attachment sprang up between us which ripened into love a very ardent love, on my part, at least I then felt that women were little less than angels, and she the sweetest and purest of them all

"In time I declared my passion, and my sweetheart gladdened my heart by the acknowledgment of feelings similar to my own We became engaged I need not tell you of the blissfulness of those days. The charm of life seemed to have just begun.

"In the meantime, John grew discontented with his position at the factory His income was large for a salaried man but its coming was so regular, and the amount so unvarying that there was a monotony about it which did not harmonize with his ambitious ideas He threw up his position and started a factory of his own His notions of business were those of a child his training had not been in the proper direction for success

"He failed disastrously. His wife, instead of extending the sympathy which a man under such circumstances craves charged him with imbecility Her reproaches were so constant that the poor man became distracted The loss of his wife's love and respect, added to the blasting of his financial hopes, made him succumb entirely He died leaving his wife nearly penniless

'The bereaved ones took their loss quite philosophically—evinced but little grief I thought I offered them all the consolation in my power—showed a becoming interest in the widow's plans for the future—made various suggestions in regard to positions which were respectable, the duties light and the pay good—all of which advice was kindly received but not acted upon

Though Mrs Rivers after her husband's misfortunes had exhibited traits of character which would render her during seasons of disaster anything but a genial companion I should if I had been pecuniarily able, urged a speedy marriage of myself and beloved and offered a home free from care to the widow of my deceased friend, but the claims of my widowed mother and young sister could not be ignored and those claims though moderate enough were sufficiently great to keep my purse in a state of depletion quite incompatible with the permanent maintenance of strangers My resources were too limited to entertain such a thought for a moment

"Not, however with the ladies That as yet unproposed arrangement, was the one of all others uppermost in their minds though I opine, they had no great faith in its accomplishment, else the change in their manner toward me would not have been so marked

I continued my attentions [illegible] to my [illegible] love but I noticed a great lack of cordiality on her part the [illegible] freely given smiles were withheld and when I put the question to her How soon shall the happy day be ? she replied

The [illegible] of our marriage may be hastened or permanently removed according to your decision in regard to a request which I have to make

I asked her to name the request though I must confess I was not without a surmise as to the nature of it Said she

It relates to my sister Her welfare is a consideration of more importance to me than [illegible] than a matrimonial alliance with any one that is unless such alliance would contribute as much to her comfort as to my own What I wish to ask is whether you are willing in the event of our marriage to undertake my sister's support and to give her a home a permanent home under your own roof

This request as she termed it I felt in no position to grant The want of delicacy displayed made me forget that solicitude for [illegible] kindred is an [illegible] table thing, even though allowed to [illegible] one's discretion and the bargain like way in which the matter was broached seemed to rob the subject of our union of all that tenderness with which I in my own mind had surrounded it

I tried to explain to her that I was not a rich man, but expected to do for her relative whatever my ability would permit and reminded her that if she loved and trusted me she might safely leave the matter to my honor But that did not satisfy her Counting too much upon the extent of my love and not realizing the effect of persistency on some natures she pressed me to bind myself by a sacred promise or relinquish any claim which I might fancy I had to her hand

The conflict of emotions (love and pride) made me hesitate for a moment ere I was ready to reply When about to speak she seemed to divine my answer and anticipating it raised her hand and said, coolly—

I know what you would say please consider our engagement at an end'

After a few words of entreaty and reproach on my part and the farewell injunction 'Go and never show your face again from my amiable friend, I retired from her presence

For three weeks following this distressing interview I was the most wretched man in the country The alternate feelings of wrath and forgiveness, of love and chagrin to say nothing of the rude awaking which I had experienced from my blissful dreams so wore upon me that I could neither eat nor sleep, and became reduced to a mere shadow of my former self What the end might have been to me I dread to think, had not a few lines from her own pen reached me, expressing regret for what had been said—avowing a love which could not endure endless separation and intimating that a sister's importunity was the cause of the whole unpleasantness

'That letter calmed the troubled waters of my soul considerably My appetite improved I began to assume again the appearance of a human being But I was in no hurry to reply My love had received such a withering that it was in no condition to bloom again right away and my views as to the nature and motives of women had undergone somewhat of a change 'Angelica and Sincerita' were names which had been replaced in my mind by others less flattering, but perhaps more appropriate

"Indecision, common to young people suffering from heart-ache, led me to delay so long any recognition of her communication that the lady evidently thought I needed another stirring-up, and one, too, of a different character. I received, through her lawyer notice of a suit brought against me for breach of promise, and pecuniary damages for injured feelings, etc.

"Strange to what expedients women will resort to further their ends !

"I should willingly have paid the damages although I had but little faith in the existence of injuries, but public scandal was a thing I dreaded to face, and a legal contest with a woman—a woman whom I once had dearly loved and for whom, perhaps I still felt a weakness—was highly distasteful to me But I had a character to sustain, so concluded to appear as defendant in the case

"The trial like the lady herself was a mixture of bitter and sweet The hand of the widow, as prime mover in the proceedings was plainly revealed The sympathies of the jury were largely with the fair plaintiff (beauty and tears have their influence) but the evidence was entirely against her, and she lost the suit

'Subsequent to the trial, I offered, through my attorney, to pay such part of the damages claimed as I was then able—promising to liquidate the whole in time I did not like the attitude in which I was unwillingly placed, that of an enemy to the cherished ones of my departed friend and made this offer to change as well as to show to the ladies that their welfare was a matter in which I had not ceased to take an interest. And I had, too, an undefinable heart longing for the happy days of the past— a yearning for her who once had received my caresses, and a sincere wish to retain her esteem

"My offer was refused with disdain (the freak of a woman or perhaps, the disregard for once, of the prayers of a sister) and a verbal message sent to me to the effect that it was her earnest hope that I should know nothing but misery for the remainder of my life

"After the lapse of several years I was summoned to the death-bed of my not-forgotten friend I found [illegible] conscious but hardly able to articulate She implored forgiveness, and managed to inform me that her love had always been mine—her heart had been right though her judgment wrong and wished me to promise to meet her in heaven. I made her the promise, God permitting

"The sudden revealing of the better side of her nature so overwhelmed me with love and grief for her—the only woman who had ever entered my heart—her helpless condition so excited my pity that I would have made any sacrifice to prolong her life. She died in my arms When I go hence I shall look for her I hope she may be found in that place from whence I, when I first met her felt assured she came

'Very much obliged to you, Uncle George said Mark, as he rose to go 'I feel the necessity of expedition there is no telling how the complexion of things might be changed by the sudden demise of a brother in-law "

'Please excuse me too ' observed Henry the liability of being sued for breach of—etiquette weighs heavily upon me '

Rather said I, ' than run the risk of being invited to 'go and never show your face again I will linger a while with you uncle and have a chat about something—profitable

ONE DAY OUT OF SEVEN

Birds cannot always sing
Silence at times they ask to nurse spent feeling
To see some new bright thing
Ere a fresh burst of song fresh joy revealing

Flowers cannot always blow
Some Sabbath rest they need of silent Winter
Ere from its sheath below
Shoots up a small green blade brown earth to splinter

Tongues cannot always speak
O God in this loud world of noise and clatter
Save this once a week
To let the sown seed grow not always scatter

—From the Spectator

In his spare hours Lord Lytton has been flirting with the muses, and the result will appear soon in the shape of several poems hitherto untranslated of the sweet singers of Persia—Hafiz and Ferdusi—and a metrical version of the famous prayer composed by Haroun al Raschid Among other curiosities the coming volume will contain will be a literal rendering back into English of Moore's Lalla Rookh and Irish Melodies from the translation into Persian of which Lord Lytton is a master

BONAPARTE'S LITERARY JUDGMENTS

[illegible]

[illegible] Perhaps you are right but in this [illegible] I own [illegible] like that [illegible] which a woman [illegible] It is a [illegible] of people [illegible] serves the [illegible] woman [illegible] in this life but we must [illegible] that [illegible] people cannot be bound by the conveniences

But I replied is not the application of these laws to the conduct of life like that of the dramatic unities to the drama They give order and regularity and they do not really trammel genius except when it would, without their control, err against good taste

Ah good taste ! That is another of those classical words which I do not adopt It is perhaps my own fault But there are certain rules which mean nothing to me For example, what is called style good or bad, does not affect me I care only for the force of the thought I used to like Ossian but it was for the same reason which made me delight in the murmur of the winds and waves In Egypt I tried to read the "Iliad" but I got tired of it As for French poets I understand none of them except Corneille That man understood politics and if he had been trained to public affairs he would have been a statesman I think I appreciate him more truely than any one else does because I exclude all the dramatic sentiments from my view of him For example, it is only lately I have come to the denouement of 'Cinna' At first I regarded it as merely a contrivance for a pathetic fifth act, for really clemency properly speaking, is such a poor little virtue when it is not founded on policy, that to turn Augustus suddenly into a kind hearted Prince appeared to me an unworthy climax However, I saw Monvel act in the tragedy one night, and the mystery of the great conception was revealed to me He pronounced the "Soyons amis Cinna," in so cunning and subtle a tone that I saw at once the action, was only a feint of the tyrant, and I approved as a calculation what I had appeared to me silly as a sentiment The line should always be so delivered that, of all those who hear it, only Cinna is deceived

"As for Racine, he pleases me in 'Iphigenie " That piece while it lasts makes one breathe the poetic air of Greece In 'Britannicus" he has been trammeled by Tacitus, against whom I am prejudiced, because he does not sufficiently explain his meaning The tragedies of Voltaire are passionate, but they do not go deeply into human nature For instance, his Mohomet is neither a prophet nor an Arab He is an imposter, who might have been educated at the Ecole Polytechnique, for he uses power as I might use it an age like the present And, then, the murder of the father by the son is a useless crime Great men are never cruel except from necessity

"As for comedy, it interests me about as much as the gossip of your drawing-room I understand your admiration of Moliere, but I do not share it, he has placed his personages in situations which have no attractions for me '

From these observations it is plain that Bonaparte cared only to observe human nature when it was struggling with the great chances of life and that man in the abstract interested him little

ADULTERATED BUTTER

BENTON COUNTY March 21, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Will Oregon ever try to make as much butter as she consumes ? This is the question we hear so often repeated, and it is difficult to return a satisfactory answer, as at the present we have to purchase half the demand from other places Our farmers don't seem to be interested in this produce, although a very profitable business This lack of enterprise is to be deplored as the butter brought here from other countries is mostly an adulterated article The practice of coloring butter seems now to be almost universal It is difficult to obtain butter, even from California which is not more or less colored I saw only lately an abundant supply of butter from California but not a pound of it was pure butter none wore its own true color

Oleomargarine made from beef fat, is frequently sold for true butter as people cannot, on account of its color and other properties resembling butter distinguish it from the genuine article New York is the main manufacturing place for this article As much as 20 000 pounds are manufactured daily at certain seasons How far this is used to adulterate first class butter on this coast I have not the means of knowing

Some of the materials used for coloring butter are annotto yolk of eggs carrots some of the chromates and perhaps aniline The first is more generally used than any other It is sold by nearly every druggist It is a coloring substance called annotto, or arnot the pulp of redish color surrounding the seeds of the fruit of a middle sized tree growing in Guinea and other parts of South America. It has a sweetish peculiar odor and a rough saline and bitterish taste It is also used for medicine and for coloring silks and cottons orange yellow Butter is sometimes largely adulterated with red ochre powered bricks farinaceous substances chalk tumeric etc

It is difficult to believe that anyone will knowingly use in his daily food articles so injurious and so foreign to the elements which compose the tissues of the human organism

But why use coloring materials in butter at all Is it a matter of taste ? Does not the coloring which nature gives to all objects of beauty approve itself most to cultured taste

So far I have seen no butter artificially colored whose aspect did not declare it a fraud All such butter has a sickly morbid hue, look in perfect contrast to the inimitable and natural color of pure butter Let the color be pale cream to golden yellow but don't make us any artificially colored stuff Farmers don't ride your fences any longer go to work and make us pure butter

OLD TIME JOURNALISM

How the News of the Big Gun Explosion was Carried to Baltimore from Washington.

Washington Correspondence New York Graphic

Happening into a Washington paper and news store the other day I encountered Joseph Shillington one of the oldest men in the business He was originally sent to Washington to superintend the delivery of the Baltimore Sun to its subscribers He said [illegible] you know that I gave the Sun what its proprietor Abell always said was the biggest piece of news he ever got

What was that Mr Shillington

"It was the explosion of the big gun on the Princeton about 1844 Commodore Stockton came around here with his big ship to give Congress and the administration an excursion. The ship went down the river somewhere near Fort Washington and there while the most of the people were down in the cabin partaking of a collation Stockton had his big gun called the Peacemaker fired off It burst and one of the pieces killed Secretary Upshur while Secretary Gilmer was crushed to a human wad Two gentlemen named Gardner and Maxey were killed at once Gardner's daughter afterwards married President Tyler Commodore Kennon was killed Commodore Stockton was temporarily blinded and Senator Tom Benton and his servant were knocked down and the servant killed Some people said that Benton was a little crazy always afterwards

This accident happened continued Mr Shillington pretty late in the afternoon and the news didn't get to Washington until something like 9 o clock at night I was not a writer of anything but I saw there was an opportunity to give the Sun a big lift The first thing I did was to go to Stet [illegible] manager of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad here and secure a locomotive It cost me $75 Mr Abell was not always liberal and I felt that I was taking a risk At that time there were only two trains a day from Baltimore to Washington, one in the morning and the other in the evening therefore I had a clear track I kept the locomotive with steam up in the old depot on Pennsylvania avenue until I could overhaul Congressman Zadock Pratt of New York He was an old tanner in the Catskill mountains and had tanned more than 1 000 000 sides of leather Pratt saw the explosion and gave me the particulars When I got down to the depot I saw the postmaster general, Charles Wickliffe standing there What is this locomotive for ' he asked He was told it had been privately chartered on newspaper business, and he was getting up letters and dispatches to go north Said I Mr Postmaster General, you can't send anything by this locomotive ! This is a newspaper locomotive Wickliffe was indignant that there should be any such thing as a newspaper locomotive it had not been heard of up to that time Said he to the engineer The government will pay for this ' Never you mind,' I said to the engineer and fireman and I got aboard and we went as fast as the state of the road and kind of locomotive would allow to Baltimore nearly forty miles distant, which we reached in one hour and a half I got there about 11 o clock, the compositors had already been dismissed and the edition was on the press I had taken the precaution to fee the engineer and fireman, and make them go right back to Washington and talk to nobody in Baltimore I said to the pressman, 'stop that press at once I could not make them understand anything. Then I went down to Mr Abell's house, he lived on Water street He put his head out of the window with a night cap on it and asked who was there Finally he came down stairs and went with me to the pressroom We had sent for the compositors previously

As soon as the composing room was lighted up the Clipper and another newspaper there wanted to know all about it We kept everything a secret and got out the Sun with nearly two columns of news The other papers called it a moon hoax It was not until about nine o'clock the next morning that a train came in from Washington confirming the story, and then the Sun had made it general all over Baltimore. The Sun had been established a few years, but had not made much mark, and for months afterwards it boasted of its enormous expenditure in getting that piece of news But from that it learned the value of enterprise to such a degree that when the Mexican war broke out, two years afterwards, the Sun used both locomotives and couriers '

THE GREAT COMET OF 1843

PROF PEIRCE'S DESCRIPTION OF THE VISITANT NOW SUPPOSED TO HAVE RETURNED

[From the Boston Advertiser March 4]

The following extract from Prof Peirce's lecture on comets and meteors contains a description of the wonderful comet of 1843, of which Gould's comet is supposed to be a reappearance

About noon on the 28th of February, 1843 groups of people in many of the towns of New England especially Portland, Me , collected at the corners of the streets, gazing up toward the sun Protecting their eyes in the shadows of the houses they saw a brilliant object close to the sun Such a marvelous spectacle had never before been seen A thoughtful sea captain, Mr Clarke, brought out his sextant, and repeatedly measured the distance of the strange object from the limb of the sun. These unique observations are on record, and, submitted to rigid criticism attest the accuracy of the observer In about a week from this time a wonderfully brilliant tail of a comet was seen skirting the horizon soon after sunset, and reaching more than one-third of the way round the sky It was, now a tail without a head, as it was at first head without tail but they were members of the same comet The best determination of its path was accomplished by the distinguished astronomer, Sears C Walker. At its perihelion it passed nearer the sun than any known comet, with the single exception of that of 1680, computed by Sir Isaac Newton, and in the discussion of which in the Principia he broached the first approximation to the true theory of the cometary tail These two comets approached so close to the sun that it would seem quite possible that they touched its surface, or, at least, swept in nearer than the solar corona It would not have been an absurd hypothesis that they were ejected from the sun at the time of penetration, had it not been for the fact that the comet of 1680 was seen on its way down to the sun, and for the remarkable phenomenon which we are about to describe concerning the comet of 1843 It may be claimed as a not impossible hypothesis that each of these comets was at some former time the product of a solar eruption in accordance with Buffon's theory of the origin of comets It would only involve a force which would double the greatest velocity given to the solar field of hydrogen But a juster interpretation of the phenomenon and one which avoids the necessity of an extravagant volcanic action is to be found in the relation between the comets and the meteors It is simply the splash of the falling meteors. In about an hour and a half the comet of 1843 like that of 1680 went round the sun from one side to other What would have become of the tail which was reaching out about 100 000 000 of miles from the sun to the earth's orbit ? There have been those who have actually adopted the incredible I may say the impossible hypothesis that the tail rotated through this immense circuit developing a centrifugal force which all the united powers of the universe could not have sustained No The comet practically left its tail behind it and began to grow a new tail as it receded from the sun There were thus two tails nearly side by side The new tail was distinguished because it commenced at the head of the comet whereas the old deserted tail began without any head at some distance from the nucleus and extended further from the sun than the new tail That such should be the phenomena of this comet was suggested by a geometer, without knowing that it had been actually observed It was as veritable and honest a prediction as if it had been made previous to the observation A double tail was observed on the first four nights after the comet's appearance at noonday The visible separation of the two tails only lasted for a few days because the earth passed almost at once into the plane of the comet's orbit so that one tail eclipsed the other

GROW NOT OLD."

Never, my heart, wilt thou grow old !
My hair is white, my blood runs cold,
And one by one my powers depart,
And youth sits smiling in my heart.

Down hill the path of age? Oh, no,
Up, with patient steps I go,
I watch the skies fast brightening there,
I breathe a sweeter, purer air.

Beside my road small tasks spring up,
Though but to hand the cooling cup,
Speak the true word of hearty cheer,
Tell the lone soul that God is near

Beat on my heart, and grow not old !
And when thy pulses all are told
Let me though working, loving still,
Kneel as I meet my Father's will.

Bayonets at Alma.

[From the Boston Commercial Bulletin]

One of the characteristics alluded to was the manner in which the Russians used the bayonet. They stood firm, shoulder to shoulder, and held their weapon tight, at the "charge" with the point raised toward the faces of their opponents, never moving the while, unless thrust at, when they would rouse up and thrust back in return—slowly, but strongly. Our fellows, upon closing, finding them immovable and unflinching, commenced fiercely thrusting at them, and owing to the lack of "guarding" on the part of the Russians, the thrust would often tell—but still not enough to break their ranks Then commenced our characteristics, where we could not break through in front, we would try one side then the other; now shifting now turning; ever on the move drawing back for concentration, and then rushing forward, officers using their swords and Colt's revolvers meanwhile

It was in one of these concentrated rushes that we succeeded in penetrating this 'phalanx," but our previously "blown" men were now tired and exhausted after the march and the scrambling, upward nature of the conflict, and their bayonet thrusts, though constant and fierce, were not so rapidly given as before however, like the peculiar dog whose name is frequently used to characterize the Briton, they "hung on, thrusting slowly but deadly in silence, perspiration streaming down their faces, blood from their wounds and their weapons reeking, they struggled on upward and onward, winning their way step by step, over the fallen bodies of friend and foe till, finally victory perched upon their banners

Mr Tilden's Health and Habits.
